Dear Javid

Following receipt of the final report, I am writing to offer my personal congratulations and those of Lancashire Children's Services Authority for achieving an outstanding judgment at your inspection during the autumn term.

This particular judgment has never been issued lightly by Ofsted and I am aware that the 'bar' has been further raised of late, particularly in respect of the requirement for teaching to be consistently outstanding across the school.

I am aware that this inspection outcome for Preston Muslim Girls' reflects a dedication to the community you serve and the adoption of the highest aspirations for every girl in your school. This inspection judgment is a testament to the hard work invested by all members of the school community and in particular is a reflection of the strong and effective leadership provided by yourself, your governors and your senior team; I note the comments in the inspection report that "The governors and senior leaders have a clear, ambitious vision for the development of the school ... [and] share a relentless determination to improve provision for the good of the pupils".

I wish you and Preston Muslim Girls' High School well for the next stage of your development.

With thanks for the service you provide to Lancashire children and young people.

Yours sincerely

Bob Stott

Dear Sir

I am writing to congratulate you, your teaching and non-teaching team and last, but not least, your pupils in being awarded OUTSTANDING status by Ofsted. What brilliant news!

I know that you are already in the Top 100 for GCSE success and have been for several years. This latest recognition is no mean feat and you must be overjoyed about it.

I can imagine how much hard work there has been involved in bringing the school up to this standard and I know you will have to keep the school up there with the best in the country.

Well done and best wishes for the future.

Yours sincerely
